

UNITED STATES FOURTH CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

---

President Obama,

Please, accept my request for your assistance to compel Black Americans to commence their deliberations for the peaceful revolution of the United States.

Please explain for Black Americans that white people have not, yet, figured out how to organize a reliably just government, or private corporation, or a constitutional convention.

The American Experiment that we exercise is the generational exploration of controls for self-government, and the multi-level system that we have is considerably flawed compared to our modern sophisticated expectations in our abilities to construct reliable technologies. Might we recall your proclamation at the Michigan University commencement. Something along the lines of, "... not smaller, or bigger government, but smarter government."

There is only one way to change Washington, and it should not be that difficult to understand. A "national divorce," civil war, or overwhelming social disorderliness, will inevitably compel the wisest among us to call for charter conventions upon the enlightenment of a more sophisticated government separation theory. The Three-part Separation Theory is inaccurate. The separation of government is supposed to be demarcated by certain sections of law, and then those partitions are subdivided into the three branches.

Should you need further details there is a more robust introduction available at the Kindle Store. United States Fourth Continental Congress: Introduction to the Revolution.

Thank you for your attention, and I look forward to your participation in the deliberation of issues that will deliver Black Americans to the American Dream.

Copies:
Supreme Court of the United States
United States Senate Minority Leader
United States Speaker of the House of Representatives
National Archives and Records Administration
Congressional Black Caucus
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People