President Trump;

I respectfully request the Executive Administration consider my humble request to charge the Supreme Court with supervising the United States Fourth Continental Congress to reorder the United States Constitution.

Primary duty is to prepare the United States Courts for the reordering process of the government chartering system and continued competent supervision of the subsisting federal court operations.

Second duty is the establishment of federal courts to deliberate grievance categories and review petitions of directives systems composed to order a reliable government chartering system that can be translated into as many languages as possible, applicable for all levels of government, and convertible for at least three municipal population configurations: small, standard, and large.

The first grievance and reform court should be established for Native Americans. The second court established for African Americans. The third court established for Asian Americans. The fourth court established for the Latino Americans. The fifth court established for the Caucasian Americans. The sixth court will receive the rest of the various ethnic, political, ideological, religious, commercial, labor, government reform, and etc.. The delegated courts are assigned to members of the subsisting federal judiciary pool in alignment with their ideological sympathies, if necessary and possible. State courts may be drafted, as well, in alignment with their ideological sympathies to hear and graduate local grievances to the federal level should there be an overwhelming submission of petitions. The ambition is to provide trust for the adversely effected citizens to enter petitions of grievances and/or corrective directives systems to the government without fear of an unsympathetic court and unjust reconciliation of the petitions submitted.

Please note the obvious conclusion that Justice Clarence Thomas will most likely be charged with the founding of the African American court. Hopefully, Justice Thomas' inauguration may be scheduled for the African American Museum. It should not be difficult to coordinate the commissioning of a Native American court (possibly July Fourth), and recognize the commencement of the United States Fourth Continental Congress. All other federal grievance and reform courts prepared to commence hearings may participate in the exercises, or remotely, upon the approval of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the Native American court and the Honorable Justice Thomas.
